

The Psychic Link

Male Genitalia Candle

white - for attracting a new or unknown male lover.

red - to arouse passion in a man, to restore nature.

blue - for peacefulness, fidelity, and a happy home.

black - to wreak sexual vengeance on a man.

Before being lit, the candle is carved with the name of the intended target, using a needle or pin to write the name in the wax, along with one's wishes. It may be placed on a name-paper or other item linking the work to the target individual. It is dressed with an appropriate dressing oil, such as Love Me or Follow Me Boy or Lover's Trap. Genital candles can be tied and bound or tied together in pairs for various purposes. If the work is not being done for love, then another appropriate dressing oil should be selected, of course. If you do not have any dressing oil, you can use Olive Oil this is an all-purpose oil.

It is important to properly dispose of ritual remains. Wrap up any left-over candle wax, incense ashes, and used sachet powders in a piece of cloth. Secure it with thread and tie it.

Disposing:

If you want to keep something close, bury it in your back yard.

If you want to attract something, bury it under the front door step

If you want to destroy its influence, burn it.

If you want it to move away and sink, throw it in running water

If you want to disperse it to a distance, throw it into a crossroads

If you want to fix its influence, inter it in a five-spot pattern

If you want it to work by means of spirits, bury it in a graveyard

If you want to hide its point of origin, conceal it in a tree

If you want it to work in secret, give it in food or drink

If you want it to work by stealth, hide it in clothing or on objects

If you want its influence to begin or strengthen, throw it East

If you want its influence to end or weaken, throw it West

If you want its influence to rise and fall cyclically, float it in a tidal estuary
